

1923

Book Description

16–19. Herbert Bayer, banknote for the State Bank of Thuringia, 1923. Germany's rampant postwar inflation necessitated large-denomination banknotes. Black type overprints a violet rectangle, lines, and a textural repetition of the denominations.

My Description

I chose this picture because it caught my eye as I was looking at them all. The way they chose to change the perspective of the type and make it into the road for the vehicle is a cool choice and is a cool idea I would be inspired by.