Book Description

24–10. Edward Fella, announcement for a lecture, 1995. A medley of personal and eccentric letterforms is composed with connective logic and visual whimsy.

My Description

I chose this because I don't know why but it reminds me of a children's book about halloween. Maybe because of the type they used and how it's dark but it gives children's book energy because of the size and placement of the text. It reminds me of doctor seuss.
